Saving Water with Water Butts

Water butts save water and help to save the environment

- Use water butts to collect rainwater that would otherwise run down the drain.
- Water butts help to reduce…
  - The amount of mains water taken from natural waterways
  - The amount of energy used in treating and pumping mains water

Water butts provide flexibility for garden watering

- Hosepipe bans don't apply to the rainwater you catch!
- You can use rainwater to water your garden at any time and however you like.

Other good reasons for water butts

- Using rainwater instead of mains water will save you money on your water bill.
- Knowing you are making a difference to the environment by using water butts and other water-efficient practices around the home and garden feels good!
